

Handwritten text in cursive script (sōsho) on the right side of the document. The text is arranged in three vertical columns, reading from right to left. The characters are dark and somewhat faded, but the overall structure is clear. The first column on the right contains the characters '成', '徳', '院', '長'. The second column contains '印'. The third column contains '馬' and '子'.

Vertical handwritten text on the left side of the document, possibly a date or a reference number. The characters are faint and difficult to decipher, but appear to be in a standard script.

Handwritten Japanese text in cursive style (sōsho), spanning two pages. The text is dense and highly stylized, typical of historical documents or personal correspondence. The characters are written in black ink on aged, yellowish paper. The script is highly fluid and interconnected, with many characters overlapping or written in a way that suggests a continuous flow of writing. The text is arranged in vertical columns, reading from right to left across the pages.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is written in dark ink on aged, yellowish paper. It consists of several lines of dense, flowing characters, possibly representing a specific dialect or a highly stylized form of a major script. The lines are roughly horizontal but show some vertical alignment, suggesting a list or a series of related entries. The ink is dark and the paper shows signs of age and wear.

Handwritten Japanese text in cursive style (sōsho), likely a letter or document. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is arranged in vertical columns. The characters are fluid and connected, characteristic of the cursive script. The text appears to be a formal or semi-formal communication, possibly related to a business or administrative matter, given the use of characters like '申上' (to report) and '御座' (to be present).
